

At Christmas, we celebrate more than a baby in a manger—we celebrate the arrival of a King. Jesus came not in royal robes or with earthly power, but in humility and grace, born in a stable among the lowly. Yet from the beginning, He was declared King—the promised Messiah, the ruler whose kingdom would never end.

Unlike worldly kings who reign with authority and distance, Jesus rules with love, mercy, and closeness. His crown was one of thorns, His throne a cross. He gave His life so that we might have eternal life, offering hope, peace, and restoration to all who follow Him. His kingdom is not built on power or wealth, but on justice, compassion, and truth.

This Christmas, as we gather with family and neighbours, let us remember the true meaning of the season: the birth of our King, who brings light into darkness and joy to the world. May His reign bring peace to our hearts and unity to our community. Let us welcome Him not only into our celebrations but into our lives—Jesus, the King of kings, the Prince of Peace, and the greatest gift ever given.

Wishing you a blessed and joyful Christmas!
